

MRS. MINNIE VEST AND MENZO COLE

Run Down in Railroad Yards By B. & O. S-W. Engine.—Woman Killed Instantly.

COLE LIVED SEVERAL HOURS.

Died at the Hospital.—Coroner Returned Verdict of Accidental Death.

Mrs. Minnie Vest was instantly killed and Menzo Cole was fatally injured by a B. & O. S-W. engine at 9:25 Wednesday night.

The accident occurred about 100 feet west of the O'Brien street crossing and at the time it occurred, the engine, No. 1389, was backing west through the yards on the main track. The man and woman were going in the same direction and were walking along the edge of the track.

The engine had pulled local freight No. 32 in from Washington. The train was due here about 2:30 but did not arrive until 9:11. John Banta, conductor, was in charge with M. C. Black, engineer and David Jenkins, fireman. The train was put away on the south track west of O'Brien street and the engine went east to the end of the switch and then started to back in toward the round house on the main track.

Riley Everhart, brakeman, was riding on the step on the back of the tender and was carrying a lantern.

As the engine went east the crew had noticed a man and woman walking west on the main track. Just after the engine had crossed O'Brien street on the return trip Everhart saw the couple walking along the edge of the track and called to them but they failed to get out of the way, probably becoming excited when they saw the engine so near to them.

It is stated that they stepped directly onto the track instead of away from it.

The woman was caught and thrown under the wheels, the engine passing over her and mangle the body badly. Death, it is supposed, was instantaneous. Cole was knocked from the track and was badly hurt about the head. He was taken to the hospital where he died at one o'clock this morning.

Immediately after the accident in the yards, an ambulance was summoned and the body of Mrs. Vest was taken to Voss' undertaking establishment and after Cole's death, his body was also taken there.

Coroner Dowden came from Brownstown this morning and after holding an inquest, returned a verdict of accidental death.

The engine crew state that the engine whistled for O'Brien street and that the bell was ringing as they backed through the yards.

Mrs. Vest was 38 years old and was a daughter of Charles Schwartz of Ewing. She was born near Brownstown and lived in Brownstown and vicinity until about three years ago when she came to Seymour. Last July she was married to Otto Vest but they had separated and recently she has had a room at the home of Mrs. Mary Green, 232 Meyer street.

Her mother is dead but her father and several brothers and sisters are living. She was not considered very strong, mentally.

The body was sent to Brownstown this afternoon for burial.

Cole formerly lived in the west part of the county. Recently he has been working for the Seymour Manufacturing Co. and has been boarding at Mrs. Lewis' on High street. He was about 60 years of age. His wife is dead but he left several children. One son, John Cole, lives west of Seymour.

The body of Menzo Cole was taken to Paintersville to the home of a relative this afternoon and the funeral services will be held there Friday afternoon.

RECEPTION TO SENIORS

Given Wednesday Evening by Teachers at Supt. Linke's.

The high school teachers and Supt. Linke gave a delightful reception at the latter's home Wednesday evening to the members of the class of 1911.

Miss Kate Andrews gave an interesting stereopticon lecture on scenes in the Alps. The pictures shown were taken by her during a trip through Switzerland.

Much amusement was afforded when the baby pictures of the different members of the class were thrown onto the canvas. Some of the members of the class did not recognize their own pictures. Later pictures of the graduates were shown also. Miss Josephine Abell gave a talk regarding the original of each picture.

Refreshments were served and the evening was passed very pleasantly.

Universal Peace Day.

Next Sunday will be observed as Universal Peace day by many Sunday Schools in the United States and England. The First Baptist Sunday School of Seymour will observe the day and a souvenir card representing the congress of all nations, a beautiful pantomime in colors given at the World's Sunday School Convention at Washington, D. C. last year, will be given to each one in attendance next Sunday morning. Mrs. M. E. Baker, who attended the World's Convention, will tell of the wonderful scene represented on the card. This is also Memorial Sunday and it seems specially fitting that the subject of universal peace should be considered on the day when we recall the greatest war our Nation has ever had.

HEAVY DAMAGES

Demand of the B. & O. S-W. by a Former Switchman.

Floyd H. Dunn, formerly a B. & O. S-W. switchman, has sued the railroad company in a Cincinnati court for $75,000 damages.

Dunn, who was employed as a switchman, was struck by a bridge and knocked down on the top of a freight train, near the stock yards in Cincinnati on March 21, last. He charges that there were no warning whips, or hanging straps to give notice of the overhead structure, and that he had been given no instructions regarding the bridge, but had been given to understand that it was high enough to pass under, he alleges. He says that the railroad surgeons removed a large quantity of bone from his skull, which was fractured, but the operation failed to relieve the pressure on the brain, and his right side is partially paralyzed. He claims that he has spent $1,300 trying to effect a cure, but has been unable, and he is permanently disabled. Dunn is but thirty-one years of age. He also says the railroad company is due him for work he performed as a switchman.

AN OLD SCHOOL RECORD

Recalls Days When Public School Teachers Boarded Around.

George McDonald has brought to the Republican office a sheet from an old school trustees' record. On May 12, 1849 it was decided, "That we have a three months school taught by a female teacher and our school fund applied for the payment of said school held in the school house." James Wheeler, clerk.

On August 10, 1849 Frederick Barkman, treasurer for school district No. 3, was ordered to pay Miss Ruddick $18 for teaching three months district school. This was signed by James Wheeler, Daniel McDonald and Frederick Barkman as trustees.

In the fall another three months school was arranged for and the following order is entered in the record: "At a meeting of the Trustees and Citizens of School District No. 3 at the schoolhouse on the 22nd day of September, 1849 it was agreed upon to employ Allen W. Barns to teach a public school in said District for three months for which it was agreed upon to pay the said Barns the sum of ten dollars and fifty cents per month and boarding among the persons sending to said school to have the public funds applied and the balance to be paid by the persons sending to said school in proportion to the time sent and the said Barns to attend to the collecting the balance after the public funds in the treasurer's hands is paid."

SATISFACTION OF PATRONS

With Work Done in Schools During Past Year.—Harmony Among the Teachers.

The city school board held a meeting Wednesday evening and completed the work of selecting the teachers for the next school year. Some time ago all the teachers who had made application for reappointment, were selected and since then, the remainder of the present corps of teachers have filed applications and they were reappointed at Wednesday evening's meeting.

There will therefore be no change in the teaching force next year unless some one resigns later. It is possible that some changes among the teachers in assignment of work may be made by the superintendent.

The reappointment of all the teachers is an indication of the excellent work that has been done at all the buildings the past year. There has been general satisfaction with the schools among patrons. Harmony has existed among the teachers, there have been few complaints in the schools or from outside and all work has been kept up, notwithstanding the difficulties caused by the late start at the Shields building and the breaks in the terms caused by quarantines.

The corps of teachers is as follows: J. A. Linke, Superintendent; H. C. Gast, music; Lillian Volland, Art.

This is the first instance in the history of that school where a sophomore gave the entire program for a recital.

Albany, N. Y., May 24.—By a vote of 35 to 2 the senate passed the assembly bill regulating cold storage warehouses and the sale of cold storage food. The bill provides that the new law shall apply to all foods excepting nuts, fruits, cheese and vegetables.

MURDERED FOR PEARLS

Four Successful Pearl Fishermen
Found Dead in Kentucky Backwoods.

Campton, Ky., May 24.—The Letcher county authorities are investigating what appears to be a quadruple lynching of four pearl hunters who made successful finds in the Kentucky river.

It is reported that the nude bodies of the four men have been discovered swinging to a tree in the woods in a deserted part of the county. Dr. F. H. Lewis identified one of the victims as J. W. King, a pearl hunter, who a few days ago dug up a pearl from the river bank valued at $1,000.

The other three are said to have hailed from Oregon, and it is believed that they were murdered by men who robbed them of their pearls.

COBB LEAVES BASEBALL

FOR ONE DAY AND DRIVES RACE
AUTO ON SPEEDWAY.

Great Baseball Player Would Become Speed Demon If Opportunity Was Afforded in Long Race.

Ty Cobb, the champion batsman of the American League and the famous star of the Detroit Baseball Club, is a speed demon. The famous Tyrus demonstrated his prowess at the wheel of a racing automobile at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, recently, when he turned a mile in a National "40" in 52 seconds, with "Brick" Owens, the American Association umpire, riding in the mechanic's seat. The weather was inclement and the track was rather damp, but the nifty outfielder sent the big car over the minutes flat or at the rate of seventy-rate.

While Cobb was not after Barney Oldfield's fast mile of 35.63, made on the big brick oval, he did turn some fast miles. The course was wet and made it all the more hazardous to attempt fast time, but this did not deter the "Georgia Peach" and after two trips around the track with "Happy Johnny" Aitken, the star of the National racing team, Ty took the wheel and started after the speediest mile he could reel off.

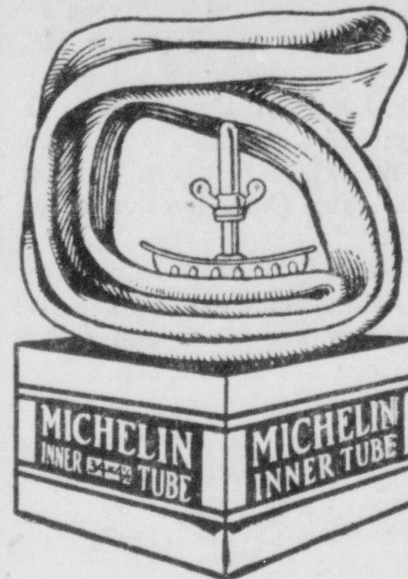

The Speedway management made an exception for the famous diamond star and the National Company took a new roadster off the floor, and the blue finish of the car excited the admiration of the crack outfielder. Clad in the habiliments of a professional "speed demon," the fans would hardly have recognized Jennings' star as he crouched behind the big wheel. Ty made one circuit of the track to get accustomed to handling the car and then waved the timers to catch him on his next trip. Considering that the car, in automobile parlance, "was green" Ty's feat of going the two and one-half miles in 2:20 shows that he was hitting it up some, although, as he expressed it, "it was fun—not half so hard as judging a long fly."

Tiring of driving a car, with all the parts necessary to make a finished car, Cobb signified his desire to try out a test car, but not until he had turned a mile in 55 seconds in the roadster. Three test cars were on the track, but none of them had been limbered up and the car turned over to Cobb had not done twenty miles after coming off the floor, but the fact that the motor was stiff did not cause the diamond "speed demon" to hesitate and he clambered into the test car. Ty made a mile in 55 seconds, which, considering the stiffness of the motor, was making good time.

It was not long until "Brick" Owens caught the fever and when Cobb halted in front of the grand stand again, Owens agreed to trust his life with Cobb if Cobb would agree to "let her out" as Owens expressed it. This was what Ty was aching to do and let it out he did.

To show that he was a real "speed maniac" Cobb let the motor out enough to rip the tread of the right rear tire on the track stretch, and as Owens expressed it, "Why it looked like he was trying to put on a new necktie." By this time it was growing dark and much to Cobb's regret he was unable to continue reeling off the miles and he had to leave the future stellar work on the track to the racing stars entered in the big Memorial Day event at the Speedway.

This was Cobb's first experience holding the wheel of a high-power car on a track, although he has driven fast cars for a number of years. Last year Tyrus was carded to meet Nap Rucker, the Brooklyn pitcher, in a match race, but President Navin, of the Detroit Club, intervened and the event was called off. Cobb kept his plans for the Speedway carefully guarded and but few knew of the proposed trip.

HOTEL CLERK IS ACQUITTED

Charged With Shooting With Intent to Kill, Whit Johnson Was Dismissed
by Court on Ground That Though
He Evidently Harbored Intent, a Door Between Him and Intended Victim Precluded Ability to Kill.

Washington, Ind., May 24.—Whit Johnson, aged sixty-four, day clerk at a hotel, owes his freedom to the "present ability" rule of law laid down by the higher courts of Indiana. Following a trial in the circuit court on an indictment charging that he had fired two shots from a revolver at L. W. Howard of Odon, with intent to kill Howard Johnson, was acquitted by Judge J. W. Ogdon on the ground that, while he doubtlessly harbored the intent, he did not have the "present ability" to inflict the injury charged by the indictment, because Howard was protected by a door. Johnson opened fire with a revolver after Howard had assaulted him with a carpenter's plane, according to his testimony.

Warsaw, Ind., May 24.—Peter Evans, aged sixty-three, who was once wealthy but has for many years lived alone in a small shack on the shore of Pike lake, is dead. The police records show that Evans was arrested more than 1,000 times for intoxication or disorderly conduct. He spent more than half of the last twenty-five years serving sentences in jail and his misconduct was always described as drunkenness or disorder that followed his spree.

Man a Working Machine.

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto had slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

—As With Auto and Watch—

so with the human body, it gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch or auto, or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers. Health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of

—The Spaulhurst Osteopaths—

That they are expert body mechanists, know what to do, and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. They give a little more satisfaction than is expected and make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Adjust the human machinery and nature makes the cure.

You are invited to call, consult and learn what ails you without charge. Do it today. Yes, you! It may not be too late. First National Bank Building, Seymour, Phone 557.

DISEASE AND DEATH

In the State of Indiana During April.

The Bulletin of the State Board of Health just issued for April, says: The deaths in April, 1911, exceeded those in April, 1910, by 218. Measles was reported as the most prevalent disease, with tonsillitis next. Scarlet fever was prevalent in many places in the state but generally in mild form, the total deaths for the month was 22, while measles caused 89 deaths. The people are gradually learning that measles is a dangerous disease. Like scarlet fever, it leaves bad results, and its mortality has become greater than that of scarlet fever.

The cities report 1448 deaths, rate 15.3, or 1.6 higher than the rate for the whole state. The rural deaths numbered 1,606, with a rate of 12.6 or 1.1 less than the total rate for the state. Pulmonary tuberculosis wrought its usual destruction, 300 deaths, almost ten each day being caused by it. Infantile paralysis caused three deaths; number of cases not known. Cancer caused 134 deaths; violence 173; whooping cough 30; diphtheria 17; typhoid fever 40; smallpox none. Smallpox prevailed to a very considerable degree, being reported from 32 different localities. This disease does not cause alarm any more for it causes few deaths and severe cases are rare.

Births for March: Birth reports are always a month late because the law gives twenty days in which doctors and midwives may report. Total births 4,001—stillbirths excluded. Stillbirths 154, white 148, colored 6. Males 2478; females 2423. White males 2431; white females 2373. Colored males 47; colored females 50. State rate, population 2,700,876, 21.4. Northern sanitary section, population 927,229, rate 20.8. Central sanitary section, population 1,114,087, rate 20.7. Southern sanitary section, population 659,560, rate 23.3. Highest rate—Clay county, 29.3. Lowest rate—Union county, 11.3.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION

Being Held in Driftwood Township
Today.

A local option election is being held in Driftwood township today. A telephone message from Vallonia at noon stated that the election was passing off quietly. It has been expected that the dries would win the fight, but the wets have become encouraged during the past few days. They claim to have gained an advantage by the bringing of a school house question, relating to the location of two proposed new buildings into the contest. Vallonia and the south part of the township are said to be arrayed against each other to some extent in this matter.

The fact that the farmers are extremely busy now, it is figured, makes the outcome of the election uncertain.

CAUGHT IN TRAP OF OWN MAKING

New York Burglar Meets An Unexpected Death.

SKYLIGHT PROVED FATAL TRAP

While Climbing Through Roof Thief's Neck Is Caught by Descending Lid of Skylight and There He Hung, Perishing Miserably—Discovery Not Made For Many Days and Features of Man Were Unrecognizable.

New York, May 25.—A burglar, some time within the last three weeks, undertook to break into the residence of Elias Surut at No. 138 West 121st street. A skylight dropped on his neck as he climbed down through the roof and there he dangled, choking by inches, while the sharp edge of the mantrap slowly cut off his breath and sawed into his flesh. The body was found last evening still hanging.

May 5 Mr. Surut closed his town house and took his family to their cottage at Arverne for the summer. Mrs. Surut came to town yesterday to shop, and last evening went up to the house to see that things had not been disturbed. It was then that the horrid discovery was made. She called the police. They raised all the windows in the house and proceeded to the top floor.

A man's body—visible all except the head—swung from the partly opened skylight. He had been here for days and perhaps weeks. The head was outside with the chin resting flat on the roof. The neck was squeezed and gashed until decapitation had almost resulted. There was a rope tied about the dead thief's middle, the other end of it being fast to a chimney outside. One of his hands clutched the taut rope. The fingers of the other were gripped on the coping of the scuttle. The face was unrecognizable.

The story of the tragedy was plain. Evidently the thief had forced the heavy skylight and had started to lower himself through the opening. At the instant when he was disappearing within, the heavy glass-topped lid had slipped and dropped, nipping him as a rabbit is nipped in a "figure 4" trap. He had struggled hard, it was plain, dying slowly up there, alone. His feet had kicked a square foot of plaster off the walls, his clawing fingers had scratched deep into the painted woodwork.

Coroner Feinberg was positive that the man had been dead for more than two weeks. That he was a burglar with some knowledge of the art, there was no doubt. He wore rubber-soled shoes, with two pairs of socks over them. He carried a skeleton key and a jimmy, and in his right trousers pocket was a revolver. A pawn ticket bore the name "Connolly."

O'REILLY CONVICTED

Busy New York Lawyer Faces Long Term in Prison.

New York, May 25.—Daniel O'Reilly, the lawyer, son of a popular police judge now dead, former assistant district attorney, and of counsel for Harry K. Thaw and many other notorious defendants in sensational murder cases, has been convicted by a jury in the criminal branch of the supreme court of receiving stolen property. The maximum penalty for the offense for which he was indicted is five years' imprisonment.

Justice Davis remanded O'Reilly until tomorrow in order that his lawyer might have time to prepare any motions he might wish to make, and O'Reilly went across the bridge of sighs to the Tombs. O'Reilly was indicted on April 13, following a confession by Frank J. Plass, a jewelry peddler, who had been arrested for complicity in the robbery of Aaron Bancroft, a Wall street broker, of $80,000 worth of securities, which were afterward, through O'Reilly's connection, returned to the broker upon the payment of $5,000.

Will Not Withdraw Nomination.

Washington, May 25.—The announcement is authoritatively made that the nomination of Hood P. Loveland to be postmaster at Peru will not be withdrawn. The president and the postmaster general still believe the senate postoffice committee will eventually make a favorable report on the nomination. At any event, the nomination is not to be supplemented by another.

Dead in Bathtub.

Bloomington, Ind., May 25.—Irvin Minneman, aged twenty, an Indiana university freshman, son of Conductor F. M. Minneman of the Pennsylvania lines, living at Logansport, was found dead at noon in the bathroom at the home of Mrs. Emma Munson, where he had roomed. Death was due to accidental asphyxiation. He went into the room, saying he intended to take a bath. Mrs. Munson became alarmed when Minneman failed to respond to her call.

When the door was broken open the young man was found in the tub, two-thirds full of hot water. The water was still burning, but gas was flowing from an unlighted jet above Minneman's head. It is thought the jet was accidentally opened when he took a towel hanging from the jet. Minneman's entire body was cooked by hot water. He was studying law and doing well.

ONE OF THE CASES

Growing Out of The Tunnelton Fire On Trial at Bedford.

The cases of the trustees of the Tunnelton Christian church, and Ellen Wilcox against the B. & O. S-W. Railway Company for damages, were called for trial Wednesday in the circuit court at Bedford. Special Judge W. E. Clark is on the bench. The cases grew out of the fire at Tunnelton several years ago which destroyed considerable property including the Christian church. It was claimed the fire was started by a spark from a B. & O. S-W. engine and the road has been made defendant in a number of damage suits as a consequence. Two or three of the cases have been tried in Jackson county.

No one was near to render aid but he managed to climb onto the wagon and drive to town. Upon his arrival here he was taken to his home on Fifth street and given medical attention.

Getting The Young Man is Bad.

A well-meaning Washington florist was the cause of much embarrassment to a young man who was in love with a rich and beautiful girl.

It appears that one afternoon she informed the young man that the next day would be her birthday, whereupon the suitor remarked that he would the next morning send her some roses, one rose for each year.

That night he wrote a note to his florist, ordering the delivery of twenty roses for the young woman. The florist himself filled the order, and thinking to improve on it, said to his clerk:

"Here's an order from young Jones for twenty roses. He's one of my best customers, so I'll throw in ten more for good measure."—June Lipincott's.

The June Strand Magazine.

The June Strand upholds its reputation for being one of the most varied magazines published. An article which should especially attract women is one called "The Creation of a Venus." In order to build up this perfection of feminine beauty an English artist has taken the most perfect feature from a number of famous beauties and "created" a modern Venus of surpassing loveliness. The portraits from which this Venus has been "built up" are given in color and add to the attractiveness of the subject. Other articles in the June Strand which will attract are "Women Who Write Plays," "Wall Street: Its History and Romance," and "Uncle Sam's Humor." The fiction is excellent, and includes stories by Barry Pain, Austin Phillips, Randolph Bedford, Arthur Morrison and C. C. Andrews.

Miss Christina Leblanc, teacher in the city schools, will join a party for a tour of Europe during vacation.

A Helpless Invalid

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo. — "When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced a hopeless invalid by specialists. I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever,—my friends hardly recognized me so great was the change."—Mrs. Woodson Branstetter, Richmond, Mo.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what another woman says:—

Jonesboro, Texas. — "I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for myself and daughter, and consider it unequalled for all female diseases. I would not be without it for anything. I wish every mother in America could be persuaded to use it as there would be less suffering among our sex then. I am always glad to speak a word of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you are at liberty to use this testimonial."—Mrs. James T. Lawrence, Jonesboro, Texas.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

EVERY PASTOR A CONFESSOR.

That's What Dr. Sheldon Would Like to See.

ADVICE AND GOOD CHEER.

Author of "In His Steps" Does Not Believe in Forgiveness of Sin by a Minister—The Confessional Not Entirely a Spiritual Matter.

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Topeka, Kan., author of "In His Steps" and several other widely read books, believes that every pastor of a Protestant church should have a confessional, where the members of his flock could go to their pastor and pour their troubles into a willing ear and receive wholesome advice. He does not intend that this confession should be in the nature of that followed by the Catholic church, where forgiveness of sin is given by the father confessor. It should be a place where those heavily laden with cares and trials and tribulations could unload their burdens.

On Trial in Boston.

"The relations of the minister to his congregation," Dr. Sheldon said, "should be such that the members would be free to go to him and confess their troubles and receive advice. I do not in the least advocate the doctrine of the forgiveness of sins, but it seems to me that the minister, in order to fulfill his full duty to the church and to his flock, ought to make himself so useful that the members would feel free to confide in him about anything that concerns them. The Baptist Emmanuel church of Boston is carrying out this idea now. I have been working along this line for many years.

"The confessional is not entirely a spiritual matter. It is a place where people can carry their troubles of whatever kind or nature, business, spiritual and religious, family affairs and purely personal matters. It is the working out of the plan to give more help to the congregation. Some ministers work with the idea that their connection with the affairs of the congregation ends with the preaching of the sermons and the calls and the perfunctory routine followed by all. There is much other good work that can be and ought to be done.

Catholic Church Understands.

"The Roman Catholic church has understood human nature for centuries. The Protestants have not had this understanding. The Catholic confessional contemplates the forgiveness of sins, but its chief hold has been in aiding the members of the church bear the burdens they have to carry. Human endurance will bear up under certain troubles to a certain extent, and then it snaps. If one is able to tell his troubles to another in whom he has confidence and who may be able to give advice and aid, the troubled one feels better and stronger after the telling, although the trouble may not be solved or lightened in the least. That is human nature.

"It is the duty of the minister to be the close friend of every member of his flock. He should do a real service and be a real help at all times. Men and women come to me for advice. They tell me of their family affairs, their business prospects and reverses and almost everything imaginable. I give them the best advice I can. I counsel with them, I condole with them, and I try to help them solve the troubles that come to them. It gives them greater peace of mind. They do not break down. After confiding in me and talking over their worries they go away stronger and better men and women and children and become more useful to themselves, their friends and the world.

"That is the idea I have in the confessional for Protestant churches. Every church should have one. Every minister should have certain hours when the members of his congregation could go to his study and tell him their worries and be given as good spiritual, business and social advice as any minister should be able to give—advice that no lawyer and few other friends could give."

BURIED DOG NEAR WIFE.

Phelps Also Intended to Erect Monument, but Neighbors Protested.

Although he had stoutly declared that nothing could force him to take the step, George W. Phelps of East Hampton, Mass., finally acquiesced in the wishes of his excited neighbors and removed the body of his dog from a spot near his wife's grave.

Mr. Phelps buried the animal in his lot in a cemetery, and as it had been a faithful friend for years he said he intended to erect a monument to it. This brought forth protests from persons who have relatives buried in the cemetery, and the local authorities took the matter up. So vigorous were the protests that the authorities had announced a special meeting to discuss the case and hear the advice of counsel when Mr. Phelps gave in and said he would take the dog's body out of the burying ground.

England's Dairy Expense. During 1910 England paid to foreign countries $35,000,000 for eggs and $40,000,000 for poultry.

OBITUARY.

John Humphery was one of the early settlers of Indiana. His parents came from New Jersey in the early part of the 18th century. Hannah Rebecca Case, a young girl who came from New Jersey in 1812, became acquainted with John Humphery and they were married in 1823. Of their five children, all have passed away. Geo. W. being the last, who died at his home in Valonia Wednesday morning, May 17th at about three o'clock, aged 71 years and 8 days. Geo. W. was the fourth child, he was born in the old homestead in Grassy Fork township, Jackson county, Indiana, May 9, 1840. During his earlier years he attended the old fashioned subscription schools, but subsequently had the benefit of the improved educational system introduced in 1851. Oct. 8, 1861, he enlisted in Company A, Fifteenth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry under Capt. Wells and Colonel Dunham, with which command he served three years and three months. He endured his full share of hardships and privation, doing his duty at all times as befitting a patriotic soldier of the Union and obtained his final discharge at Indianapolis, Jan. 5th, 1865.

Mr. Humphery returned to the old farm and engaged in the cultivation until 1892, when he purchased a farm near Valonia where he lived till Sept. 1907, when he moved to Valonia where he has since lived in a modern home.

Oct. 20, 1867, Mr. Humphery married Mary A., daughter of Henry and Nancy Humphery, five in number, were all present. They were all well educated and have prospered in various vocations. Mrs. Laura Sturgeon at Indianapolis, Mrs. Della Shipman at California, Mrs. Mecca Cummins at Emporia, Va., and Mrs. Rosa Meyer on the old farm near Valonia. The family are all members of the M. E. Church.

Comrade Humphery, as he was called by neighbors and friends, was a good citizen, a spirited neighbor, social in disposition and a friend to every good home. The children loved him, youth sought his advice and all drew near to him and learn of his faith. Bro. Humphery was a faithful and substantial worker in the church. He has held an official relation in the church for several years. He was Sunday school Supt., Steward, Class Leader and District Steward. He never gave up, always true to his pastor and loyal to the church. He has received his final discharge here on earth, he has gone to answer to his name in the skies. A blessed mother, a true and faithful wife and children loved and cherished by a kind, true and noble father, are all here with sad hearts.

The funeral occurred at 2 p. m. Friday, May 19, 1911 at the M. E. Church in Valonia, Ind., under the auspices of Gordon Tamm, Past No. 1549, G. A. O. conducted by Rev. C. B. Gibbs of Morgantown, Ind., and assisted by Rev. J. F. Edwards, pastor, Rev. E. F. Schneider of Brownstown, Ind., Rev. J. W. Trowbridge of English, Ind., and Rev. M. B. Hyde, D. D. of Greensburg, Ind. The remains were laid to rest in the Valonia cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

JAP BALL TEAM LOOKS VERY GOOD

Oriental Play Better Game of Baseball Than Is Imagined.

MADE CHICAGO BOYS HUSTLE.

Although Defeated, Waseda University Team Put Up Fast and Clever Exhibition—Players Are Small—Game Popular in Flowery Kingdom.

"Waseda! Waseda! Waseda, sa! Da wassy! Da wassy, sa! Wassy, sa!" It sounds even worse than it looks reduced to writing. It is the Waseda university yell. The college baseball players from Japan emit it before taking the field. Diamond fans in Chicago recently had the pleasure of listening to it when the Japanese ball tossers tackled the University of Chicago team and were defeated.

Photos by American Press Association.

Although the oriental exponents of America's own pastime did not win, they surprised the fans by putting up a fast and clever brand of ball. Omura, who pitched the entire nine innings, was there with a steady wing and arm motion that fooled his opponents repeatedly. He fielded well, fanned two Maroons and held Chicago to seven hits. Oi at first base, Ohara at second, Omachi at short and Fukubori at third all starred in the infield in spots, while Yamaguchi was clever behind the bat. Mikami, Iseda and Yawata in the gardens were there with heady fielding. The Japs will play several other college teams in this country before they return home next fall.

Some seven years ago Waseda university sent a baseball team to America. That was practically the start of the American pastime in the home of the mikado. Today baseball is on a different scale. Players no longer wear the Japanese tabi or sock, but are equipped with the regulation spiked shoe. Baseball gloves, masks and other paraphernalia are made after the American patterns by home manufacturers, and the spitball and the squeeze play are as familiar terms to the Japanese college chap as to the schoolboy who adorns the San Francisco beach section.

They are still lacking somewhat, so they admit, in the art of pitching and batting, but if they learn as fast in the next seven years as they have in the past they will be wonders, easily capable of meeting the best amateur teams in this country.

Waseda's delegation is in charge of A. Takasugi, a professor of English in his home institution as well as a graduate of Northwestern college and a teacher for several years at De Pauw, Indiana.

Professor Abe, known throughout Japan as the "father of baseball," because it was he who practically gave the sport a start, was unable to come, occupied as he is with his faculty work and the worries involved as president of the baseball association.

Generally speaking, the Japanese have a team of small men. The "giant" in the crowd is Oi, captain last year and first sear this season. Oi measures about five feet nine inches in height and looks to tip the scales at 175 pounds. The midget, on the other hand, is Omachi, who plays shortstop and blushing admits to five feet three inches and a poundage in comparison. The balance of the men straggled in between these two sizes, with a tendency toward the smaller one. This team is captained by Matsuda.

Do Your Cooking in the Cool

A hot kitchen is little better than a prison in summer. But the range is there, so all the cooking and the washing must be done there, too.

What a relief it would be to move the range where you pleased. You can do this with a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove—cook your dinner out on the porch, if you like. It is the only range that is really portable—that works equally well in any place. There are no connections to be made, as in a gas range; no wiring, as with an electric stove; no sooty flues and ash-filled grates, as with coal or wood.

The long, enameled chimneys carry the heat directly up to saucepans, oven or boiler; you get full value from your fuel, without waste.

CHAPTER XVIII. A BROTHER'S VOW.

CHANGE was observable in this degenerate son of the Cumberlands since many there had confronted him face to face. Physically he was improved, but otherwise the difference was such as to arouse doubt as to the real man lurking behind his dogged, uncommunicative manner. I felt that beyond the one fact that he could be relied upon to protect Carmel's name and Carmel's character, even to the jeopardizing of his case, he was not to be counted on and might yet startle many of us, and most notably of all the little woman waiting to hear what he had to say in his own defense before she threw herself into the breach and made that devoted attempt to save him, in his own despite, which had been my terror now.

Perjury, but not in his own defense—rather in opposition to it—that is what his counsel had to fear, and I wondered if they knew it. He was asked:

"Mr. Cumberland, did you have any quarrel with your sister during the afternoon or evening of Dec. 27?"

"I did." Then, as if not satisfied with this simple statement, he blurted forth: "And it wasn't the first. She disapproved of my fondness for drink. She didn't like my late hours, or the condition in which I frequently came home. I did not like her expressions of displeasure or the way she frequently cut me short when I wanted to have a good time with my friends. We never agreed. I made her suffer often and unnecessarily. I regret it now; she was a better sister to me than I could then understand."

Mr. Moffat, with an eye on District Attorney Fox, who had shown his surprise at the trend the examination was taking by a slight indication of uneasiness, went on with his examination:

"Mr. Cumberland, will you tell us when you first felt this change of opinion in regard to your sister?"

Mr. Fox leaped to his feet. Then he slowly re-seated himself. Evidently he thought it best to let the prisoner have his full say. With a solemn lowering of his head, Arthur answered:

"DID YOU HAVE ANY QUARREL WITH YOUR SISTER?"

"When I saw my home desolated in one dreadful night. With one sister dead in the house, the victim of violence, and another delirious from fright or some other analogous cause, I had ample time to think—and I used that time. That's all."

Simple words, read or repeated, but in that crowded courtroom, with every ear strained to catch the lie which seemed the only refuge for the man so hemmed in by circumstance, these words, uttered without the least attempt at effect, fell with a force which gave new life to such as wished to see this man acquitted.

"When did you see your sister Adelaide for the last time alive?"

"That night, at the dinner table.

drink, but I never saw Adelaide again till I saw her in her coffin."

This blunt denial of the crime for which he stood there arraigned fell on my heart with a weight which showed me how inextinguishable is the hope we cherish deep down under all surface convictions. I had been unconscious of this hope, but it was there. It seemed to die a double death at these words. For I believed him! Courage is needed for a lie. There were no signs visible in him as yet of his having drawn upon this last resource of the despairing. I should know it when he did. He could not hide the subtle change from me.

To others this declaration came with greater or less force, according as it was viewed in the light of a dramatic trick of Mr. Moffat's or as the natural outburst of a man fighting for his life in his own way and with his own weapons.

Mr. Moffat, satisfied so far, put his next question with equal directness: "Mr. Cumberland, you have mentioned seeing your sister in her coffin. When was this?"

"At the close of her funeral, just before she was carried out."

"Had you seen the casket prior to this moment of which you speak? Had you been near it? Had you handled it in any way?"

"No, sir."

"Mr. Cumberland, you have heard mention made of a ring worn by your sister in life, but missing from her finger after death. You remember this ring?"

"I do."

"Is this it?"

"It is, so far as I can judge at this distance."

"Hand the ring to the witness," ordered the judge.

The ring was so handed. He glanced at it and said bitterly: "I recognize it. It was her engagement ring."

"Was this ring on her finger that night at the dinner table?"

"I cannot say positively, but I believe so. I should have noticed its absence."

"Why, may I ask?"

For the first time the prisoner flushed, and the look he darted at his counsel had the sting of a reproach in it. Yet he answered: "It was the token of an engagement I didn't believe in or like. I should have hailed any proof that this engagement was off."

Mr. Moffat smiled enigmatically. "Mr. Cumberland, if you are not sure of having seen this ring then, when did you see it and where?"

A rustle from end to end of that crowded courtroom. This was an audacious move. What was coming? What would be the answer of the man who was believed not only to have made himself the possessor of this ring, but to have taken a most strange and uncanny method of disposing of it afterward?

"I saw it when the police showed it to me and asked me if I could identify it."

"Was that the only time you have seen it up to the present moment?"

"It is."

The universal silence gave way to a universal sigh of excitement and relief. Without waiting for the present sentiment to cool, Mr. Moffat proceeded immediately with his examination: "You swear that you have seen this ring but once since the night of your sister's death, and that was when it was shown you in the coroner's office?"

"I do."

"Does this mean that it was not in your possession at any time during that interim?"

"It certainly does."

"Mr. Cumberland, more than one witness has testified to the fact of your having been seen to place your hand in the casket of your sister, before the eyes of the minister and of others attending her funeral. Is this true?"

"It is."

"Was not this a most unusual thing to do?"

"Perhaps. I was not thinking about that. I had a duty to perform, and I performed it."

"A duty? Will you explain to the jury what duty?"

The witness' head rose, then sank. He, as well as every one else, seemed to be impressed by the solemnity of the moment. I even thought I could detect a tremor in his muscles as well as in his voice:

"I had rebelled against my sister's wishes; I had grieved and deceived her up to the very night of her foul and unnatural death—and all through drink! Here his eye flashed, and for that fleeting moment he looked a man. "I wished to take an oath—an oath I would remember. It was for this purpose I ordered the casket opened and thrust my fingers through the flowers I found there. When my fingers touched my sister's brow I inwardly swore never to taste liquor again. I have kept that oath."

It was an unexpected explanation and calculated to cause a decided and favorable reaction in the minds of those who had looked upon this especial act of his as an irrefutable proof of guilt. Mr. Moffat's voice was heard rising again in his strange but telling examination:

"When you thrust your hand in to take this oath, did you drop anything into your sister's casket?"

"I did not. My hand was empty. I held no ring and dropped none in. I simply touched her forehead."

This added to the feeling, and in another instant the excitement might have risen into hubbub had not the emotions of one little woman found vent in a low and sobbing cry, which relieved the tension and gave just the relief needed to hold in check the overstrained feelings of the crowd. I knew the voice and cast one quick glance that way, in time to see Ella sinking affrightedly out of sight under the dismayed looks of father and mother. Mr. Moffat continued his examination by demanding why, when the ring was discovered in Adelaide's casket and he saw what inferences would be drawn from the fact, he had not made an immediate public explanation of his conduct and the reasons he had had for putting his hand there.

"I'm not a muff," shot from the prisoner's lips in his old manner. "A man who would take such an oath, in such a way and at such a time is not the man to talk about it until he is forced to. I would not talk about it now."

He was checked at this point, but the glimpse we thus obtained of the natural man in this indignant and sudden outburst, following so quickly upon the solemn declarations of the moment before, did more for him in the minds of those present than the suave and most discreet answer given under the instigation of his counsel.

The question as to who had dropped the ring into the casket if Arthur had not—the innocent children, the grieving servants—was latent, of course, in every breast, but it had not yet reached the point demanding expression.

"Mr. Cumberland, you have stated that you did not personally drop this ring into the place where it was ultimately found. Can you tell us of your own knowledge who did?"

"I cannot. I know nothing about the ring. I was much surprised, probably more surprised than any one else, to hear of its discovery in that place."

The slip—and it was a slip for him to introduce that "more"— was immediately taken advantage of by his counsel.

"You say 'more.' Why should it be more of a surprise to you than to any one else to learn where this missing engagement ring of your sister's had been found?"

"I was her brother. I had a brother's antipathies and rightful suspicions. I could not see how that ring came to be where it was when the only one interested in its restoration was in prison."

TENNEY ANOTHER COME-BACK.

Manager of Boston Nationals Playing Great Game at Initial Station.

Fred Tenney is making a good start in his efforts to substantiate his declaration that a baseball player can "come back." When he accepted the management of the Boston club he said he would play first base and prove that his days in baseball were not over. So far he has made good his assertion, as he has been setting a fast pace for his youngsters to follow.

cially in Boston. It was thought there he would not do for active infield work owing to his having been sent to the minors from New York on account of bad legs. But the Boston fans are beginning to think they were wrong. Tenney has given them every reason to think so.

Tenney does not appear to be as fast as when he was regarded as the premier first sacker of the National league. In spite of this he is speedy enough to hold down the base and do as well as any one of the first basemen Boston has had since he quit the club before.

MAY BREAK UP A NOTORIOUS GANG

Police Say They Have "Queen of Horse-thieves."

With the Rearrest of Charles Berry, Recently Paroled Convict, the Police of Northern Indiana Secure Additional Evidence Against Rose Berry, Now in Jail at Marion, Said to Be Leader of Bad Gang.

Goshen, Ind., May 25.—Charles Berry, who was released a few weeks ago from the penitentiary, where he had been serving a sentence for horse stealing, was arrested and taken to Marion by Sheriff George of Grant county, who charges him with being the brother of Rose Berry, alias Mrs. Mary Smith, who is in jail at Marion, charged with stealing a horse from James Squires.

Berry confessed that the woman under arrest at Marion is Rose Berry, his sister, and an artist of ability. He says she has been the queen of an organized gang of horse thieves who have operated in northern Indiana for years, and have made her home, near the Michigan state line, a rendezvous.

When Berry was arrested for horse stealing several years ago his sister was found with him. She was released when she said that she had been called to take care of her brother, who was sick, and that she had no knowledge of his theft. She and her brother were found in a shack near Marion, and several stolen horses were recovered.

At the time of this arrest Berry said there were others connected with the horse stealing, and the authorities found a quantity of dyes used in changing the markings of horses. Rose Berry was arrested recently at Columbia City and the horse stolen from Squires was recovered. Sheriff George says the woman can change the markings of a horse so skillfully that its owner could not recognize it.

DELAY OF DIAZ AROUSES STORM

Capital of Mexico the Scene of Bloody Riots.

RESIGNATION AGAIN PUT OFF

The Everlasting "Manana" Interposes Its Influence and Promised Abdication of Mexico's Aged Ruler Was Postponed For No Apparent Reason. —The People, Angered and Mystified, Swarmed the Streets.

Mexico City, May 25.—This capital is in a ferment to know the reason why Diaz did not resign yesterday. It is a dangerous ferment, yet no answer to the question comes, no official explanation has been made, no word has come from the stone house where the president lies abed attended by physicians. There are a thousand explanations, and each one is being seized by the newspapers and rushed to the streets in handbill extras, probably in the absence of any word of explanation from an authoritative source.

The simplest reason is the best. General Diaz was not prepared to resign. The newspapers which had spread the official announcement that yesterday was the day of the old president's act of self-abnegation were as ready in the afternoon to flood the boulevards with dodgers stating it as a positive and authoritative fact that manana (tomorrow) would see the final act of the revolution staged in the chamber of deputies.

El Diario, more enterprising than its fellows, sent boys racing into the crowd that jammed the approaches to the marble house of deputies with little shin plasterers printed in screaming type which said: "General Diaz will not resign today. Read full account of why in tomorrow's issue."

The crowd roared its disappointment as the dodgers circulated through it. The element of mystery that cloaked all of the proceedings was maddening. Word that there was to be no resignation presently sifted out to the street and the crowd that blocked the broad street from curb to curb yelled its disapproval. The police moved in and snatched the loudest mouthed out of the press and hurried them to jail. For a time it looked as if there would be a riot. Rumor followed rumor and the whole city was seething. Some said that Diaz was already in Vera Cruz, having left his resignation behind him to be read when he was at sea. Others declared that he does not intend to resign and that he is but sparring for time until he can buy over some of the rebel leaders and make a last fight for power. The wildest report had it that the president does not expect the deputies to accept his resignation, and that if the house does he will commit suicide.

The alternate swing of the pendulum was registered late in the afternoon, when boys circulated handbills signed by the names of four well-known members of the Liberal party, proclaiming in large type that General Diaz ought not to retire from power and warning the members of the chamber that the resignation of President Diaz would precipitate anarchy. These handbills had the effect of exciting the crowd still more. As night closed down the crowds grew and the 4,000 police and 2,000 soldiers available had difficulty in keeping the throng moving.

Everywhere shopkeepers put up their shutters and most of the streets in the main part of town were dark as the grave. The crowds surged up one street and down another, armed with staves torn off the shutters put up by shopkeepers, and shouting "Vive Madero." President Diaz's house was guarded by a troop of cavalry and two companies of infantry. The mob made an attack upon the office of Imparcial, the government organ, and wrecked the editorial office and mechanical plant of the paper. Another riot broke out in front of the cable office and many shots were fired. A violent demonstration at 10 o'clock on the Plaza Zocalo was met with a volley from the soldiers and ten were killed.

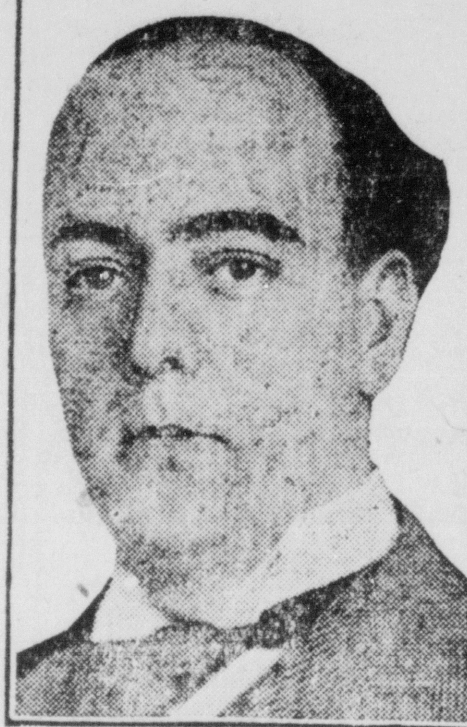

Seeds of future disturbance are germinating by cartoon and editorial. Velled references have been made in the past few days to the Reyistas. It is pretty well known that in the ranks of the Reyistas are all of the extremists of the present office-holding faction who see their last hope collapse with the resignation of President Diaz and who are ready to ally themselves with any opposition that gives them hopes of return to office. One of this faction, a man of considerable prominence in the past government of Diaz, talked freely of the hopes of his clique.

He says General Reyes will remain in Havana for the present, adding: "He will not have to be there long, though. All we will do is to sit back and give the Maderistas rope enough to hang themselves. When hunger, forced through the neglect of crops, begins to press all the land, the Maderistas will fall. Then we will invite General Reyes to Mexico."

The clerical party, which has suffered long obscurity under the harsh restrictions of Diaz, is reported ready to ally itself with the Reyistas.

President of Wabash Railway Wants Newspaper Regulation.

WABASH HEAD WOULD CHASTEN NEWSPAPERS

Delano Recommends Government Regulation for Them.

Chicago, May 25.—F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash railroad system, speaking before the Chicago Traffic club, advocated the regulation of newspapers by the interstate commerce commission as semi-public utilities. "The railroads have gone through regulation and laid down a system of procedure, and the honest roads are profiting by it," said Mr. Delano. "But why stop at the railroads? Why not apply the same rule to bankers, to interstate shippers and merchants, and, indeed, why not give the newspapers a taste of it? I think it would do them good."

UNIQUE DISTINCTION

Governor Wilson Receives High Mark of Honor in Minnesota.

St. Paul, May 25.—For the first time in Minnesota's history the governor of another state was received with full military honors when Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, St. Paul's guest, was given a salute of seventeen guns on his arrival at the state capitol, where he held a public reception. Speaking before the business men of the city at a banquet tendered him by the association of commerce, he said that the real situation in American politics now calls for honesty of purpose and independence of thought. His speech made a good impression, as did the man himself on St. Paul Democrats.

Governor's Pay Docked.

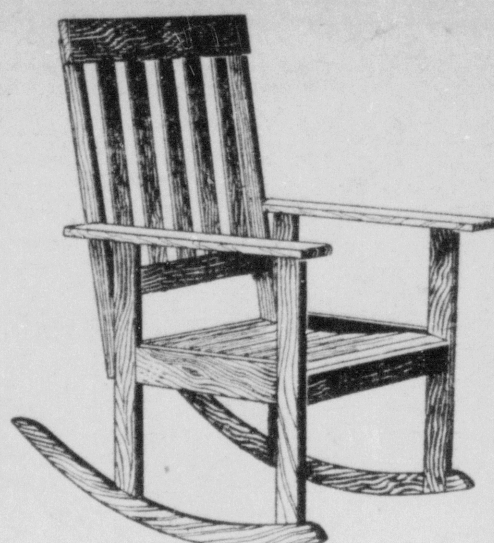

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—The state controller's office in making out the pay warrants for the last month for the various state officials, made one out for $800 in favor of the president of the senate, who has been acting as governor during Governor Wilson's trip through the west. This is the first time in the history of the state where the governor has been docked for absence from his post.
